

Medical Assistance Transportation Resources Are Available

Magellan Behavioral Health of Pennsylvania (Magellan) strives to support members with addressing barriers in the many areas considered to be Social Determinants of Health (SDoH). Lack of transportation and inability to use ordinary public transportation due to physical or mental health symptoms or limitations is a major SDoH barrier. Medical Assistance Transportation Program (MATP) providers are available as outlined below to help to overcome the SDoH barrier associated with lack of transportation to medical appointments. Please share this information with members that can benefit from these available resources.

The State's site for MATP provider information across the state, by county, can be found here. If you are looking for a helpful quick reference list of MATP provider telephone providers by county, it can be found here.

The information provided below assists with finding paratransit services, specifically door-to-door service which is usually van transport for multiple riders per trip. Paratransit services are provided for healthcare appointments, including behavioral health. Paratransit services are specific for individuals who cannot use ordinary public transportation due to physical or mental health issues that are confirmed by a healthcare professional.
